Governor Claims Too Much Credit, Legislators Say

PLANS ALSO IN CONFLICT

Proposed Election Laws and Economy Program Bring Row

COLUMBUS — (By Associated Press) — Signs of friction between Governor Davis and legislative leaders, which have been in evidence for several days, became more apparent today when the governor issued a statement claiming as part of his economy program the proposed changes in the election laws which are being worked out by the election committees of both houses in conjunction with Secretary of State Smith and experts.

The governor's announcement yesterday of the appointment of a citizens' committee of nine members to work out a permanent taxation program also served to strain relations between the executive and legislative departments. Many of the legislative leaders do not hesitate to say the governor is attempting to take credit for himself which they say rightfully belongs to the legislature.

LEGISLATOR TALKS
One prominent legislative leader said today after reading the governor's statement on proposed election "economy" that the chief executive "might run into an open switch on the main line if he persists in side-tracking the legislature."

Governor Davis' statement on proposed election legislation declared that the proposed scheme to do away with the present registration system and install a single continuing registration system "is part of the general program of curtailing state expenditures and increased efficiency in state affairs to which the governor has pledged himself, and toward the accomplishment of which the pending reorganization of the state government is another step."

The proposed change in the registration system is expected to effect a saving of half a million dollars annually.

PLANS CONFLICT
The governor's statement asserted that a bill providing for the new registration system would soon be introduced in the legislature. Among members of the elections committee the general impression prevailed that no such separate bill would be introduced, but that the registration provision would be included in the general scheme, making numerous other changes in the election laws, which the two committees are now working upon.

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — France has the greatest standing army in the world, according to information sent to congress by Secretary Baker, but counting its active and reserve forces, Italy is the world's leading military power.

France's regular force is 732,000 consisting of conscripted French and Colonial troops, and in addition had 1,350,000 men enrolled in the reserve. Italy's regular force numbers 350,000, but its reserve consists of 4,627,000 men including 3,000,000 mobile militia in the first line, 1,000,000 territorial militia as second line reserves and 14,900 carabineers and royal guards.

Japan's military forces, according to the secretary's figures, comprises 1,700,000 men, including a regular army of 733,000, a first reserve of 500,000, a second reserve of 667,000, a national army consisting of men between 37 and 40 years, of 246,000, and 200,000 men enrolled for replacements.

Great Britain's army of white troops numbers 245,000, the report said, with 100,000 additional native and Colonial troops, plus 233,000 men in the territorial armies.

Regarding the strength of the Japanese army next year Mr. Baker said:

It is known on good authority that it is in excess of that for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1921.

The figures furnished by Mr. Baker were in response to a request from the senate military committee, which desired to consider them in determining the size of the American army next year.

LEGION MAY OFFER TO AID POLICE MAYOR TO ASK FOR SCREEN LAW

SEEKS OPEN VIEW OF POOL ROOMS

Billiard Parlors and Soft Drink
Places Included

ORDINANCE IS NOW READY

City Executive Would Follow
Plan of Other Cities

Council will be asked by Mayor Burkhardt, at the next regular meeting, to enact an ordinance prohibiting the use of screens, curtains or any other object which obstructs the view of the entire interior of pool rooms, billiard parlors and soft drink parlors, similar to the one recently adopted by Toledo.

The proposed ordinance reads as follows: "Any pool room, billiard parlor or soft drink parlor or room in which beverages are sold, shall be so constructed and maintained that a clear view of the interior of said place may be had from the street on which said place of business is located, and shall be free from any screens, partitions, fixtures or any other obstructions, which may in any manner interfere with a clear view from the abutting street; provided, however, that any of the above named places, which are not located on the ground floor, or which rooms does not directly front on or abut on any street, shall be so constructed and maintained that a clear view of the interior thereof may be had from any entrance to said room."

PENALTY SEVERE
The proposed ordinance provides that violators may be fined from $25 to $100 and that each day's violation shall be considered a separate offense.

Mayor Burkhardt calls attention to the fact that Lima will be one of the last of the larger cities in Ohio to adopt the screen ordinance, Cleveland leading the movement when Mayor Fitzgerald asked city council there to pass the ordinance last November. The ordinance was passed despite the fact that it was bitterly fought by proprietors of soft drink parlors and pool rooms. The movement to remove the screens and partitions in Cleveland was pushed by the churches and the Anti-Saloon League.

Immediately following the adoption of the anti-screen law in Cleveland, other cities fell in line and did likewise.

An act is now pending in the state legislature to abolish these obstructions in pool rooms and soft drink parlors all over the state.

WANTS WORLD TO SEE HIM HANGED

Doomed Man Asks to be Executed in Chicago Park

CHICAGO — (By Associated Press) — If Edward Brislane must be hanged Friday for the murder of William Mills, motion picture theatre manager, he wants the execution to take place in Grant Park, instead of in the solitude of the jail, "so that all the world may see," said the condemned man in a letter to Sheriff Charles W. Peters made public today.

Brislane argued in his letter that Sheriff Peters was wrong in contending that the execution of criminals before the public gaze would act as a deterrent on time.

"I don't think five per cent of the people who demand capital punishment will be able to stick it out Friday, but there will be less talk and more thinking afterwards," said the Brislane letter.

Some of the recent executions conducted by Sheriff Peters have been staged within view of the prisoners in the county jail, the sheriff declaring he believed executions acted as a deterrent to crime. Once they were kept in their cells beyond their usual breakfast hour, until the condemned man had been dropped through the trap on the scaffold, and the prisoners made so much noise with their cries of "when do we eat," that the last few hangings have not been held within their cell room.

PISTOLS, SULPHUR USED IN FIGHT

100 Policemen, Firemen Battle
Negro in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA — (By Associated Press) — A six-hour battle early today between a negro, who had shot and killed a woman in the house where he was living, and nearly a hundred policemen and firemen, resulted in capture of man, mortally wounded, and the injuring of four policemen. Pistols, axes, high pressure fire hose, sulphur vandles and other chemicals were used against the negro who barricaded himself in the house.

FIREMEN CALLED
Attention was attracted to the negro, who was known as William Dresden, "Alabama Joe" and other names, when he shot Grace Robinson, a negro, and then threw her body out of the house. A negro policeman attempted to arrest him and was shot in the leg.

Reserves were sent for and when they attempted to break into the house, the negro appeared with two pistols and fired rapidly, wounding another fireman in the head.

Dresden managed to barricade the doors and the police called upon the fire department for assistance. A high pressure hose was kept in operation and every time the negro appeared at a window, he was driven back by a rush of water, but not before he managed to fire several more shots.

SULPHUR PUT IN USE
The firefighters then resorted to strategy and procured sulphur candles and other chemicals from a hospital to drive him out. The negro, however kept all windows open and this mode of attack failed.

Finally Richard Anderson, a negro member of the police vice squad, managed to get into the house unseen by the barricaded man and the fusillade of a shot and "Alabama Joe" tumbled to the bottom of the stairs. Anderson was not hurt. Six policemen seized the wounded negro and an examination at six times showed he had been shot six times. It is believed he received some of the wounds before Anderson fired at him.

HOUSES WRECKED IN LABOR WAR

Chicago Buildings Blown Up By Bomb Throwers

SEVERAL PERSONS INJURED
Federal and State Authorities
Investigate Outrages

CHICAGO — (By Associated Press) — Federal and state authorities today were engaged in a campaign against dynamite and odor bomb outrages that have been perpetrated here in the last two days. Two dynamite explosions last night were believed by the authorities to have been connected with a labor war.

Victor Katosah today was in danger of losing his sight and his wife Clara, was suffering from shock as a result of the explosion of an internal machine at the plant of a dairy company. The concern has been involved recently in a disagreement with the milk drivers' union.

APARTMENTS BOMBED
Another bomb exploded at an apartment house on the west side, tore out the janitor's quarters, wrecked the porch and broke every window in the building. The owner of the apartment said she believed the bomb had been directed toward the janitor, a non-union man.

One more victim of chemical bomb throwers was added to a lengthening list when one of the missiles was exploded in a loop apartment store, driving clerks and shoppers to the street.

DRIVE-ON MOVIES
The police said the police, the "odor" bombs first were directed against moving picture houses, the owners of which refused to comply with demands for an "electrical maintenance toll."

The management of an uptown moving picture theatre reported to the police that the explosion of an "odor" bomb had been followed by $40,000 damage to a pipe organ in the theatre.

The police said the "electrical maintenance toll" contract called for five cents a month for each theatre seat.

HARDING'S CRUISE IS ENDED

Opens Office at St. Augustine
Gets Down to Work

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. — (By Associated Press) — Back to work today after a three weeks' vacation, President-elect Harding waded into a vast accumulation of correspondence and other miscellaneous business that must be cleared away before he can give serious thought to final decisions on the personnel of his cabinet and other major problems.

Mr. Harding returned to St. Augustine last night from his household cruise along the Florida coast and established office in a St. Augustine hotel, which will be his home until he leaves for Washington to be inaugurated.

Only the most urgent communications have been forwarded to him during his trip and the stack of unanswered telegrams and letters probably will occupy virtually all of his working time for the remainder of the week.

WOULD ASSIST IN PATROL WORK

Matters to Come Before Post At Its Meeting Friday

MAYOR IS NOT YET ALARMED

With the west end terrorized over frequent visits of thugs, burglars, peepers and thieves, and the police department so far having made no arrests, the aid of the American Legion may be offered in patrolling the districts in which those intruders are appearing at almost nightly.

A meeting of Paul Gallagher Post of the Legion will be held Friday night, at which time members will discuss the advisability of offering ex-service men to the city officials to protect the citizens of that territory.

Mayor Burkhardt said that in event of what he considered a serious outbreak in the city he would welcome such an offer. He said he considered the present crime wave "more imagination than anything else."

MAYOR NOT ALARMED
"Nothing of any serious consequence has been called to my attention," the Mayor stated, "and until that time I can see no reason for alarm. There is no evidence at all of professional thievery, and have juvenile authorities to handle those minor cases."

West end citizens voice an appreciative sentiment over the proposed action of the American Legion in offering police protection. It has been insufficient to cope with the situation that has arisen in that section of the city.

The burglary case that came to light Wednesday startled the entire west end, when it became known that it took the police department half an hour to get an officer to the house in which there was a prowler. Before the officer arrived, the thug escaped.

When it was called to Mayor Burkhardt's attention that hereafter the citizens of Lima did not know how serious the situation is, due to police failing to give out reports, he stated that "it is the business of the police department to act as they see fit" and that "the newspapers carrying the news to the people are only a secondary consideration."

At present there are 32 members of the police department including Chief of Police O. J. Roush and the sergeants.

ONLY FEW POLICEMEN
From 9 o'clock at night until 3 o'clock the following morning, there are only 16 patrolmen to protect Lima's 11,000 population. It is common for several to be sick; a few duty at a time, which only allows a few to be available in case of an emergency.

According to the present division of men, this city has only three officers to protect it from crime from 3 o'clock every morning until 7 o'clock when the day force goes on duty.

This arrangement leaves citizens practically helpless in case of early morning burglaries. These three men are scattered in all sections of the city. Mayor Burkhardt said Thursday that he was endeavoring to work out a re-arrangement with the department heads to remedy this condition.

Chief of Police O. J. Roush and Safety Director Fisher were in conference Thursday morning and declared that the crime wave here is nothing more than overdrawn imaginations of people who become excited.

They are considering taking additional steps at present, it was announced.

RAILROAD DEMAND FOR ABROGATION OF WAGE PACT DENIED

DECISION IS REACHED BY U. S. LABOR BOARD

Federal Body Declares It Has No Jurisdiction Over Questions Involving Expense of Operation—Workers Charge Conspiracy to Disrupt Unionism

CHICAGO.—(By Associated Press.)—The federal labor railroad board today denied the request of the American Association of Railway Executives for immediate abrogation of the national wage agreements with the brotherhoods and establishment of a new basic rate for unskilled labor predicated on local conditions.

The decision came before B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, had started his reply to the statement last week by W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad. It was totally unexpected, but Mr. Jewell made his statement nevertheless.

WITHOUT JURISDICTION

The board held that it had no jurisdiction over questions involving expense of operation and suggested that neither the roads nor the union interrupt the hearing on standard rates and working conditions. With "further unwarranted demands."

Mr. Jewell's statement charged that the request for immediate abrogation of the national working agreements was part of a conspiracy to disrupt unionism.

In announcing the decision of the board, Chairman R. M. Barton, reviewed the powers of the board under the transportation act of February 28, 1920. He said the act imposed upon the board the duty of deciding disputes between carriers and employees of what shall constitute and reasonable wages, salaries and standards of working conditions.

The present hearing separated by agreement rules and working conditions from wages. The decision on wages was rendered last July, Judge Barton said, and the rules hearing convened on January 10.

The ruling this morning held that all questions involving expense of operation are outside the jurisdiction of the labor board.

Mr. Jewell, in his statement to the board, declared that the alleged conspiracy to disrupt unionism, so far as the railroads were concerned, was engineered by financial interests, and absolved from his charges a majority of the men engaged in active railroad management.

Referring to the statement made January 31, by W. W. Atterbury, Mr. Jewell asserted that General Atterbury "abused the courtesy of the board in granting him an opportunity to seek a veto of his sanction by using that privilege in vainly attempting to coerce employees of the roads by threatening them with a lockout, if the ultimatum which he laid down is not immediately accepted."

He added that thru the publicity which the Atterbury statement attained, the union employees were "all ready face to face with what virtually is a lockout."

SAFER FISHER AT BIG "REVIVAL"

Orders Isles Cleared Because of Fire Danger

MORE "POWER" SUMMONED

Three Persons Go Into Trance at Watts Meeting

(By WILLIAM L. BARLOW)

Scores of people were turned away from Stameis Hall Wednesday night, where Pearl Watts, woman evangelist, is conducting religious services in which she throws onlookers into trances claiming it to be the "power of God."

Safety Director Fred H. Fisher attended the services in company with Officer Coup, and had this to say Thursday morning: "What happened at that meeting was a disgrace. There is something crooked about it, but it is hard to detect. If people who have reached mature age want to go to such affairs and roll on the floor, scream, dance and fling themselves until they are exhausted, I have no objections, but I think the young people of Lima should be protected from such things."

SAFER IS BARRED

Before 7 o'clock the hall was filled. When Safety Director Fisher pushed his way thru the mob, a man at the door refused to admit him until after he had displayed his badge.

Fisher immediately ordered the Isles cleared, as he says the place is dangerous and a fire trap. Fire Chief John Mack was unable to investigate Wednesday night, but will be there tonight and see that the crowds are handled in a way in which lives are not in danger.

After scores of people were told to leave the hall, Fisher ordered the front and back seats with myself and other newspaper reporters where he could see everything that transpired.

Evangelist Watts delivered one of her blazing sermons during her hour and twenty minutes of preaching. She lambasted myself and all reporters in general together with a concerted attack on the police force, judges, preachers, and others who judged her meetings are a "humbug."

WILL INVESTIGATE

Mrs. Nettie Miller, juvenile officer, was shut out of the hall and she was unable to gain admittance. She will go to the place again Friday night and demand that they admit her. If she can find she juveniles are being dealt with, she says that she will demand immediately that they be kept from the service.

Three persons Wednesday night went into trances in front of us. One was a boy about 16 years old; another about 18, and a middle-aged woman who went "under the power" Tuesday night.

CLEANUP OF STREETS AND ALLEYS PLANNED

AS EMPLOYMENT AID Mayor Burkhardt and Service Director McClain were in conference Thursday on the proposition of planning for a general early spring cleanup of the streets and alleys of the city, to afford a means of some income to unemployed men whose services in such a campaign would be necessary and doubtless available.

Nothing definite was arrived at Thursday, due to lack of available funds for such a movement. It is very probable that a request that council make a special appropriation for the purpose will be necessary.

PRODUCTION RECORDS AT OHIO STEEL ARE BROKEN

By the general expansion throughout the country during the last few months, announcement was made Thursday by officials of the Ohio Steel Foundry Co., that all records for production at the local plant were broken during January.

The plant is working on heavy castings for the locomotive works, oil machinery and considerable heavy sugar machinery for foreign countries.

BOTKIN, CHILD SLAYER ORDERED RETURNED TO DEFIANCE FROM PEN

Showing that the clerk of Defiance in making entry in the case of Joshua Botkin, slayer of infant Arthur Bullock, had not observed the law which allows two days consideration by defendant's counsel, T. R. Hamilton, attorney for Botkin, secured an order from the court of appeals here late Wednesday, striking from the Defiance record an order for the removal of Botkin to the Ohio penitentiary, to enter upon his term of imprisonment.

As a result of the ruling, it is expected that Botkin will be immediately returned from the penitentiary to the Defiance jail. Attorney Hamilton was arguing before the court of appeals for a suspension of sentence until he could carry Botkin's case to the supreme court, when it was learned that he had been taken to Columbus.

EQUITY MEN WILL COME AGAIN

Meet Here Next Year—H. A. Lutz Elected President

At the conclusion of the Ohio and Indiana Equity Union convention Wednesday afternoon, it was decided to hold next year's meeting at Lima. That the convention held here the past two days was more of a success than any of the national conventions have been, was the reason given for choosing of Lima for next year's assembly.

The following officers were elected at a meeting of the board of directors of the Ohio Central Equity Union Wednesday night: H. A. Lutz, president; A. C. Fetter, vice-president; J. O. Coss, secretary and treasurer.

The plan of bringing the national convention of the Farmers' Equity Union here was discussed but it was finally decided that Lima is not in a centrally located position, necessary for a national convention.

BERGDOLL BRIBE CHARGE DENIED

District Attorney Talks on Draft Evader's Escape

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — The department of justice knew as early as last October that Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, wealthy Philadelphia draft evader, had escaped to Germany, the house military committee was told today by Charles D. McAvoy, district attorney of Philadelphia.

Mr. McAvoy said he received this information thru confidential sources early in October and immediately communicated it to Attorney General Palmer, recommending at the same time that O'Connor, one of the department's investigators, be sent to Germany. He added that this was not done because of possible international complications.

The attorney declared that Bergdoll "lied" when he stated in Germany that he was in the war department's employ. He said that Bergdoll "lied" when he stated that the soldier guard was drunk when he escaped from them at his Philadelphia home.

Chairman Kahn asked Mr. McAvoy if he had ever obtained any evidence to indicate that the $105,000 was to be used for "corrupt purposes."

"I tried in every conceivable way" the district attorney replied "and I was convinced that not a single person connected with the war department was corrupt."

OFFICIALS OF COUNTY AND CITY TO CONFER ON CITY STREET WORK

Mayor F. A. Burkhardt stated Thursday that arrangements have been made for a meeting of city and county officials at the court house, Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, to decide finally just what city streets are to be designated as county roads, so that there will be no delay in action when it comes to looking after the improvement of the thoroughfares.

"There are 13 streets in the city," Mayor Burkhardt said, "that have been regarded as parts of county roads. If agreed upon by the officials, arrangements will be made for the improvements of the streets with funds provided by the good roads levy."

Representing the city in the Saturday meeting will be Mayor Burkhardt, City Solicitor Garling, City Engineer Vaughn Miller, Auditor Rupert and Service Director McClain. The county commissioners, Prosecuting Attorney Lippincott and the county surveyor will represent the county.

SEES BOLSHIEVISM WORLD MENACE

English Suffragist, Emmeline Pankhurst, Is Here

LECTURE AT MEMORIAL HALL

Spreads Truth About Evil of Russian Soviet System

"The most serious problem facing the world today is Bolshevism," said Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, noted English suffragist, a lecturer, upon her arrival in Lima Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Pankhurst will speak at Memorial Hall Thursday evening under the auspices of the Central High School Y. M. C. A. and is stopping at The Norval.

There are no great number of Bolshevists, but they have a number of tools and are presenting many difficulties that the nations must combat," she said.

According to Mrs. Pankhurst, the women must fight Bolshevism, for if the Bolshevists "succeed," political freedom that the women of America and England have secured would be taken away from them.

"Bolshevists have said that they will spread their doctrine about the world. All free nations must learn the horrors of it, and so prevent them from spreading their form of government."

"In private conversations and in public lectures, I feel that people have a much greater realization of the danger of Bolshevism than they had a year ago. I am working for better cooperation among the freedom loving people to combat this evil," said Mrs. Pankhurst.

DOXIE RECOGNIZE RUSSIA

When asked if Americans should recognize Russia she said: "To officially recognize Soviet Russia is like recognizing a band of thieves. They are repudiating all obligations that honorable nations recognize." She then told how the Bolshevists for one thing had repudiated the national debt.

"I was in Russia, with the consent of the British government, in 1917. I saw the Czar overthrown in March and saw how the Bolshevists gained control in October. They are a very small minority, they are very dangerous and I am helping to fight them by showing the people the effect of the deadly doctrine."

"I believe there should have been military intervention in Russia in 1917," said Mrs. Pankhurst. "It would be much more difficult now."

When questioned as to how she thought the recent election in this country regarding the League of Nations was accepted in England she said: "Great Britain does not wish to interfere in America's affairs and will not do anything to weaken the friendship between the two nations, as there should be the best of feeling and understanding between Great Britain and the United States."

"The women of France will be a big help in fighting Bolshevism," Mrs. Pankhurst stated. "The they have not yet received the vote, they will get it in the near future. They are practical, clever and level headed. Last year the bill for equal rights passed the Chamber of Deputies but failed in the Senate. The recent Minister of France has stated that he is for equal suffrage and as soon as the reparations trouble is settled the bill for equal votes will probably be taken up and passed."

STRONG FOR REPARATION

"What would the Germans have done with us if they had been victorious?" Mrs. Pankhurst said. "France can never get enough reparation. If the question would have been left in the hands of the women of France and England, the Germans would not have been let off so easy. I was in Paris and heard from refugees of the atrocities the Germans committed in their last retreat and even after the armistice. It is only right that when a great wrong has been committed, those that commit the wrong should make some effort to pay."

"We have not suffered like France. It is our duty to support them. They suffered for us. People of Britain, like you in America were mercifully spared and we must force Germany to make up for the damage."

Mrs. Pankhurst will talk on Bolshevism at the Memorial Hall Thursday night. She will explain what it is and how it can be successfully stopped. She has been in the United States since November and will remain until April, when she will travel to Canada. She has traveled thru New York, Pennsylvania and other states and has gone as far south as Texas. She looks upon Bolshevism as an international evil, as it is the intention of the Bolshevists to conquer the world.

Mrs. Pankhurst is a small, plump woman. She is very quiet and smiles continually. Her voice is soft, clear and she creates an entirely different impression than you would expect of a woman who has been one of the strongest militant suffragists in England.

Policemen Testify They Judge at Killing Scene

CLEVELAND — (By Associated Press) — Patrolman Frank a new witness for the state trial of Judge William H. McGannon testified that he saw Judge McGannon take the stand this morning and swore he saw Judge McGannon intoxicated in Superior-ave 12:40 o'clock on the morning of the shooting.

Examining standing near the examining something he held in his hand. The officer testified. Judge McGannon is on trial the second time charged with the killing of John W. Joyce. McGannon testified that he had a street car for home at 12:30 after leaving John W. Joyce's several blocks from the scene of the shooting.

COUNTY OFFICIALS SEND THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS TO OTHER LOCALITIES

With all the hub and cry, even to the point of paying streets in order to give labor to the unemployed, yet the expense of the property owners who must pay the higher costs, county officials are spending thousands of dollars for supplies in other cities according to a statistician of the court house.

Bids are asked of local supply and printing houses, and if the out of town bidder is a few dollars under a town, said the official. "It is penny wise and pound foolish," said the official, "because local concerns pay taxes and just now printers, binders, clerks in supply houses and other Lima citizens are being steadily forced out of work, yet your own city and county officials are your biggest offenders in feeding other localities and forgetting their own."

At the recent chamber of commerce round tables the fact was brought up that a survey should be made of local manufacturing concerns. It will be found that thousands of dollars worth of goods of every description are ordered from out-of-town correspondents that could be bought of makers or jobbers at virtually the same prices right here in Lima, meaning in the end more employment and more buying power. There isn't an item used in City Hall or Court House that cannot be purchased from a local concern but it isn't.

ROAD CONDITIONS ARE BAD

J. E. Morton, Lima to Address Wapak Merchants

WAPAKONETA — (Special) — According to plans being shaped by the board of Education, immediate steps will be taken to erect a combined Y. M. C. A. and library with funds left in the form of a bequest by the late L. N. Blume, philanthropist.

The Board has $55,000 in its treasury for this purpose and may proceed under the advice of state Y. M. C. A. officials, who say that a suitable building for a city of this size can be erected for $35,000. An endowment fund will be raised. It is thought between $20,000 and $30,000 can be had thru public subscription.

It is proposed to have either I. B. Rhodes, state executive secretary, or J. J. Squier, field secretary, come here soon and speak before the chamber of commerce or an assembly of citizens on Y. M. C. A. work.

The Board of Education has a site purchased, but the erection of a building was halted because of a popular idea that one could not be built for less than $100,000. With the new thought injected into the proposition by the state officials, prospects for action soon are very good.

According to financial statements filed with the county recorder, assets of the six farmers' co-operative grain companies of Auglaize-co, total $400,000.00.

Eggs have struck a low level here. Present price is 20 cents per dozen.

wholesale and 35 cents retail. Butter price has dropped to 50 cents a pound. Radical changes in costs of other foods have been made.

Second annual convention of the Wapakoneta Merchants' association will be held Friday night. James Morton, former secretary of Lima association, will speak.

Ice dealers here say prospects for a crop of the natural stuff this winter are extremely gloomy. Not a pound has been stored in ice houses thus far.

According to 1920 census, Aug-laize-co stands first among the six western counties of Logan, Union, Champaign, Auglaize, Shelby, and Hardin in number of motor trucks, and third in number of motor passenger cars. There are 533 trucks and 3,470 passenger cars.

Frank Minnich, resident of Santa Fe, arraigned before Squire R. G. Herrmann on charge of being in illegal possession of pheasant. Trial Friday.

Highways of Auglaize-co have gotten in such bad shape, due to wet weather, that county commissioners have ordered big log wagons and other heavy vehicles off some of them.

T. E. Fisher and O. P. Gossard are applicants for the position of manager of the Auglaize Livestock Co., recently organized. Board of directors will act on applications Saturday.

Four of the six churches here will conduct special services thruout entire Lenten season.

Why You Must Have Iron to Make Your Body Strong and Your Brain Keen

Alert and Powerful—Value of Spinach and Organic Iron to Help Make Rich Red Blood and Revitalize Wornout Exhausted Nerves

WITH PLENTY OF BLOOD AND IRON, YOUR BRAIN is the most wonderful thing in all creation but without these it is nothing. IRON TAKES OXYGEN from your lungs and carries it to your brain. Without iron your brain gets no oxygen; and without plenty of rich red blood and oxygen your brain becomes dull and heavy, YOUR INTELLIGENCE POOR, your memory fails, YOU DO FOOLISH THINGS, make bad decisions and you really amount to nothing, so far as accomplishing anything of importance is concerned.

Also without iron YOUR BLOOD BECOMES THIN AND WATERY and loses its power to change food into living cells and tissue and therefore nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the full strength out of it.

THERE ARE 30,000,000,000,000 RED BLOOD CORPUSCLES IN YOUR BLOOD AND EACH ONE MUST HAVE IRON.

When, as a result of iron starvation you get up feeling tired in the morning, when you find yourself nervous, irritable and easily upset; when you can no longer do your day's work without being all fagged out at night; when your digestion all goes wrong, or you have pains across the back and your face looks pale and drawn, do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, or until in your weakened condition you contract some serious disease, but eat more spinach and other iron-containing vegetables and take organic iron with them to help enrich your blood and revitalize your wornout exhausted nerves. But be sure that the iron you take is organic iron and not metallic or mineral iron which people usually take. Organic iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, while metallic iron is just as it comes from the action of strong acids and small pieces of iron. Organic iron may be had from your druggist under the name of NUXATED IRON. Nuxated iron represents organic iron in such an equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating half a quart of spinach or one quart of green vegetables. It is like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. For sale by all druggists. DELINQUENCY OF GIRLS CHARGED

Warrant Issued for Arrest of Prominent Toledo Man

TOLEDO — By Associated Press — A warrant was issued here at noon today for the arrest of David A. Barnett, prominent local lumberman and mill work manufacturer and a member of several prominent clubs, on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of minor girls.

The warrant followed investigation by the police of reports that Barnett had lured little girls, 5 and 10 years old, into an automobile, taken them to a park and mistreated them.

The warrant was signed by W. C. Carr, vice-president of the second National Bank and president of the board of education, whose daughter is reported to have identified Barnett.

Barnett is connected with the Corbin-Barnett Company, is married and has a daughter two years old. He is prominent in church work and in business circles.

Barnett is reported by the police to have pleaded for a chance for the sake of his wife and daughter.

OBITUARY

The sudden and unexpected death of Mr. Richard T. Evans occurred at his residence in Vaughnsville, Ohio, last Saturday morning. Mr. Evans was born Sept. 20th, 1858, being the daughter of David and Edith Evans. On November the 5th, 1874 she was united in marriage to Richard T. Evans. To this union were born the following children: George, of Vaughnsville, Ohio; Lydia, of Rochester, N. Y.; Mollie, of Lima, Ohio and Daniel of Toledo, Ohio, who with her husband are living to mourn the loss of a faithful mother and devoted wife.

She was one of ten children but only two survive to grieve her loss, namely Daniel of Ottawa and Benjamin of Columbus, Ohio.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon from her late home in town by the Rev. E. Mansel Jones, R. A. E. D. formerly pastor of the Vaughnsville Congregational church officiating. The Rev. Mr. Jones is now stationed in one of Missouri's most progressive Congregational churches, Green Ridge, Mo. He was assisted by the Rev. Mr. Emmett, pastor of the local Christian church.

The great throng that came to pay their final tribute to Mrs. Evans speaks louder than any words can of her character and personality. She was happy only when she was the mother of making others happy. Devotion to duty and to her family was her life. The funeral was held at a distance that attended her funeral included the following: Richard and Mary Reynolds and Mrs. Anna Outcalt and son Morris of Columbus, Ohio; S. Z. and David Heistand, Detroit, Mich.; Daniel Cleveland, Detroit, Mich.; Daniel Cleveland, Detroit, Mich.; William and Hugh Williams of Findlay; John Funk, Plymouth, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Garner of Rochester, N. Y.

She was interred at the Turner Cemetery, Columbus Grove, Ohio. "She is not lost by only gone before."

FALL AND DAUGHERTY, CABINET PROSPECTS, SNAPPED AT CAPITAL

Senator Fall left and Harry Daugherty, photographed at the capital. It is generally believed that when Senator Fall left President-elect Harding after spending several days with him in Florida and returned to the capital that he carried with him Harding's cabinet selections. These selections included himself for secretary of the interior and Harry Daugherty for attorney general. Fall and Daugherty conferred at Washington following Fall's arrival and it is believed they discussed the appointments and other matters of political import. Daugherty was Harding's pre-convention campaign manager.

PRIEST SEES HARM IN BLUE LAWS

Boston College Professor Flays Proposed Legislation

BOSTON — "Blue law legislation is wrong in theory and fatal in practice," declares Rev. J. L. J. Corrigan, S. J., professor of social ethics at Boston College.

"These 'blue law' proposals," says Father Corrigan, "remind us of Pilgrim days. If we may judge from the evil results of such laws in the early days as witnessed to by no less an authority than Governor Bradford himself, nothing of good, but, on the contrary, much of harm may be expected if such laws are written again upon the statute books."

"History is against the hopes and theories of the Lord's Day Leaguers. The Lord's Day Leaguers might profitably read early Pilgrim history to learn how futile it is to try to legislate people into moral living. The intolerable efficiency and assumed superiority of these late-day advocates of Puritan observance is in line with down of other invasions of personal liberty of late, where a determined and well-organized minority have imposed their will upon a majority, thus undermining and subverting the very fundamentals of democratic government and impeding America's freedom itself. Practical minorities are always dangerous, but never more so than when they fancy that they are doing the will of the Lord."

CONTUMPT FOR ALL LAW "It is a fact of human history and experience explain it how you please, that extremes provoke extremes. The rule is inevitable. When restraint becomes intolerable, reaction like the swing of a pendulum, sets in. The real danger from such restrictive and repressive legislation, apart from its injustice is the fact that it gives rise to contempt for all law."

"When there are upon the statute books measures which are not sustained by popular sentiment and public opinion, all law loses respect and comes into contempt. It is the same when laws are not carried out. The result is a contempt for the law and a contempt for the community and the result is a situation of crime."

"Many keen students of our social problems think that the present crime wave in the country is due in large measure to this very fact. In the United States prohibition law, Sunday closing laws, regulations, etc., certainly provoke a great deal of crime and cannot be expected to check them."

"If the ministry of our Sabbath-army clergy has broken down in a little while, it will probably reveal that the true cause of the delinquency among their flocks is that the preaching of religion and the charity of Christ have been supplanted in their pulpits by social uplift and civic harangues."

SEEK MORE SHOES

Suspected That Bankrupts Have Goods in Hiding

KENTON — (Special) — In an attempt to uncover more alleged hidden assets of the bankrupt firm of Baker and Kohler, shoe dealers who operated stores in Kenton, Gallon, Findlay, and Ottawa, Ill., Attorney Harry C. Coffey, of Toledo creditors' attorney, held a hearing here Wednesday afternoon before Referee H. D. Gundle of Lima.

"Trustee M. Hayward, of Toledo is still suspicious of merchandise in hiding and he has procured search warrants from the U. S. District Court," Attorney Coffey said. Baker and Kohler, the bankrupts, are under bond of $2,500 each for their appearance pending action of the federal grand jury in their case. They are charged with concealing assets of the firm.

JURY ATTRACTIVE TO MEN NOW

Grand Rush Made Since Women Serve on Bodies

SMITHPORT — Men who have all their lives endeavored to keep their names out of the jury wheel are now making a mad rush to get their names in the wheel in McKean county.

This is due to the fact that women will be included as jurors from now on, it is said. C. P. Lock, of Bradford, and W. H. Morrison, of this city, Jury Commissioners are finding their mail full of requests by men to serve as jurors.

The thing, about completed, contains about 800 names, one half of which being women. Jurors composed of both sexes hereafter will be the rule, although in some cases efforts may be made to have the jury composed entirely of women.

The fact that "mixed juries" are to be the rule in the future raises several interesting questions. Suppose a jury is docketed with the women agree on a compromise verdict. Jurors are sworn to secrecy. Will the women be able to refrain from talking about what was done inside the jury room? And if they are on all-night session will the women sit up all night or where will they put the women? The law says a jury cannot be divided or separated even in the event of a long drawn out affair. Then again the question arises—What sort of games will they play after the trial of deliberations when the jury is hung up—poker, craps or bridge?

HOUSE TO VOTE ON TAX BILL TODAY

Measure Would Limit Bonded Indebtedness in Ohio

TO BE APPROVED AT POLLS

Military Levy to Pay Bonus Up to Assembly

(COLUMBUS) — (By Associated Press) — The house of representatives was prepared today to vote on the first of the taxation measures expected to eventually bring the taxation situation in the state out of chaos.

Recommended by the taxation committee, the first of the measures to be considered will be the proposed resolution providing for a constitutional amendment to limit bonded indebtedness and a kindred bill making the same provision which would be operative until the amendment would be approved by the voters next November. The measure would authorize taxing districts to ignore the limitations of the Smith one per cent law for a period of three years in order to wipe out their existing debts and start anew with clean slates, was reported out, it is not expected it will be voted on today.

The house also had before it today, another constitutional amendment, proposed by Representative Silver of Preble-co, providing for a modified form of classification of property taxation, and doing away with the old uniform rule which has been in vogue for a century. Under it real estate never could be taxed more than 15 mills without a vote of the people. The amendment also contemplated an income tax, real estate being exempt from its operation, except in cases where the income tax would exceed the general property tax. In such a case, real estate then would pay in addition to the general property tax, the excess of income tax over the general property tax.

The Silver amendment has the endorsement of various farm organizations and is understood to be in line with Governor Davis' general plan of a permanent solution of the taxation problem.

BONUS BILL ADOPTED

With the soldiers' bonus resolution proposed by a constitutional amendment to raise $25,000,000 by taxation with which to pay bonuses to former service men ready for submission to the voters at the November election, the legislature had before it today a proposal to levy a military tax of $2 per year on all male citizens between 18 and 35 years of age.

The military tax bill, introduced yesterday by Senator Cornell of Knox-co, would, its author asserts, raise approximately $2,000,000 a year. The bill provides that the proceeds derived from the proposed tax applied to retire the bonds voted by all persons who are present in the case it is approved by the voters.

Should the bonus amendment fail the money then would be turned into the state highway fund to construct improved roads.

The following persons would be exempted from paying the tax: All persons at present in the army or navy; all persons who have been honorably discharged from military service; all persons who have been honorably discharged from the state militia; persons physically disqualified from military service.

LOCAL FINANCING OF RAILS URGED

Advocated at Chicago Meeting of Trolley Men

CHICAGO — (By Associated Press) — Local financing of electric railways was advocated today by S. B. Way, of Milwaukee, as one of the best solutions of the industry's present day problems. Mr. Way was speaking before the Mid-Year Conference of the American Electric Railway Association.

"Such a happy means of financing is, of course, ideal, Mr. Way said, 'if each community were financially self-sustaining and if each street railway were owned by its patrons, being in fact a mutually cooperative enterprise, there would be universal satisfaction of service and universal acquiescence in rates of fare that approach the actual cost of service.'"

BETTER RELATIONS

Local financing, however, has not always been possible because of the large amount of money that it requires to build an electric railway line, and also because growing communities always are in debt, Mr. Way pointed out.

"Better local understanding of the economics of the business, which may be promoted by self interest in its success," he said, "carries with it better public relations and, has, in cases, made unpopularity attacks by the issue seeking politician actually unpopular. The advantage of supplementing general financing plans through local financing, thus increasing the amount of money raised, must not be lost sight of and mention may be made of the desirability from the traction company's standpoint of any issue of securities which may not carry restrictions which may be burdensome when the company is again required to resort to its credit."

ADVERTISING URGED

"The disadvantages, if there are any, arise from efforts necessary to the maintenance of good reputation, adequate publicity of the company's business and the restricted ability of local investors to absorb securities."

Mr. Way strongly recommended newspapers advertising as one channel through which sales can be developed.

The Public Wants Protection, Not Alibis

TAXPAYERS of the City of Lima are contributing to the upkeep of the police department as a matter of protection. They expect that protection to be afforded when it is needed. Unless this is done, the police department becomes useless, an expensive organization which must be maintained, but without giving the service for which it is intended.

Following printed accounts yesterday of the bold intrusion of a West Side home by a thug, an under-officer of the department rushes forward to announce that crime is at the minimum here and denies the statement of reputable citizens that officers were late in arriving at the house from which the call for assistance came.

It would appear that the heads of the police department, who are responsible to the public, are reversing the usual order of things in delegating the issuance of statements to subordinate officers while they remain quiet.

This is not a time for denials and alibis. It is a time for action by the police department in cleaning up the disgraceful affair on the West Side and if the police cannot do it, city officials higher up should promptly ascertain the reason why.

Announcement was made that the number of policemen in that section had been increased after girls were attacked and other crimes committed. In spite of this, depredations continue, no arrests have been made and it requires half an hour for a policeman to reach a home after headquarters has been told a burglar is in a house. Headquarters said there were no officers who could be sent when the call was received.

It is not the duty of the police department to decide when residents need an officer and when they do not. It is the duty of that organization to answer all calls. PROMPTLY, the view of a subordinate officer to the contrary notwithstanding. It is not for a desk sergeant or captain, sitting in a steam-heated office to decide whether some person fifteen blocks from headquarters has been frightened by a prowling cat when that person says a burglar is attempting to force an entrance to their home.

If the police department is not interested in carrying out its duty to the public and insists on following what might be taken as an implied policy in the statement of the under-officer, quoted as speaking officially for the department, Mayor Burkhardt as the executive officer of the city should look into the matter at once. If the public is not getting the service and protection it is paying for, he must find out why and act accordingly.

CALLS FOR "BEST MINDS"

WARREN G. HARDING has no monopoly on the plan of calling for the "best minds" of the country in aid of his administration. While Harding has the entire country to pick from, it would appear that, Harry L. Davis elected Governor by the people of Ohio, will not confine his selection of aides for a "state cabinet" to the confines of Ohio.

Habit is a mighty easy thing to acquire and imitation is the sincerest form of flattery. Hence, Davis' action in aping Harding probably brings to the Marion man a heart flutter of personal pride in being the originator of "something new." Ohio has heretofore elected Governors and the United States has elected Presidents who have not felt it incumbent to confess their weakness by throwing up both hands and asking for help before their work really began.

In the case of Davis, his action is not at all surprising, since his induction into office was really a "white chip." Schooled in affairs of state, by long association with leaders as a United States Senator, Harding has had ample opportunity to "get his feet on the ground" in the bigger affairs of the nation and it is difficult for one to decide whether he is really sincere and earnest in endeavoring to get at the opinions of the "best minds," or whether it is merely camouflage. Time alone will tell.

The biggest troubles that result from enlarging corps of advisers will become apparent to both these men if they persist in the idea. There's an old and likewise a true saying, that "too many cooks spoil the soup." In the case of Davis, before the chief executive of the state began sloshing about and making two jobs grow where one grew before, he imported a "state expert" from Illinois to investigate and point out where and how the affairs of the state could be conducted with less men and money.

What the Illinois "expert" told him, anyone of a thousand or more Ohioans could have told him without cost or price.

MAKING SCHOOL SURVEY

TAKING a comprehensive survey of the rural schools of Allen-co is under way. According to announcement, the work is to be done thoroughly, sparing no effort to inquire into the minutest detail to ascertain what, if anything, is lacking in the teaching methods, the buildings, the teaching force and the condition of the children, affecting their ability to acquire an education.

Prof. Oliver, detailed to look after the important investigation, announces that the work will probably require a month. The people of Allen-co spend large sums of money in the maintenance of the schools and if every thing that enters into the requirements of imparting an education to the youth of the county is not as it should be, they want to know it.

Consequently, since it is considered that the agency making the survey is considered unbiased and seeking only to point out what may be actually needed to bring the schools up to the required and desired standard, whatever report may be made will probably be accepted as reflecting the real situation.

The object of the survey is to have pointed out wherein the system may be wrong, where improvements can and should be made and they will likely be made, of anything of the kind is found to be necessary. The people of Ohio are jealous of their school system. And since Allen-co is a part and parcel of the state of Ohio, the people of this unit of the commonwealth are no different in essential than are the people of any other community.

In other words, if there is anything wrong with the schools of Allen-co, the people who support them and who depend upon the institutions of learning for the education of their children, want to know it, so that it can be remedied.

Professor Goddard of Clark University announces that he will fire his first shot at the moon early in the summer. It will be a rocket, and the stunt will cost $5,000. If he scores a hit, a flash, visible thru telescopes, will result. The rocket will travel 7,000 feet a second and will weigh 7,000 pounds. It is not announced who will touch the thing off, but probably the job will be awarded to somebody who is paying for something on the installment plan and is not particular about his future. We would advise whoever does it not to stand right up near the rocket and touch a match to it but to get a long bamboo fishpole for the purpose. After he touched the thing off, with the aid of the fishpole, he can jump on a motorcycle and may get a safe distance away in time to save his eyebrows and part of his hair. We don't know what good it is going to do to slap the moon in the face with a rocket, but we don't know what good a lot of other new-fangled ideas are doing, so let's go ahead and shoot. We have, during the past four or five years, antagonized every nation on earth, and we might as well go ahead and poke at the planets and satellites, just to show them we are the people.

JUST FOLKS—BY EDGAR A. GUEST

THE UNKNOWN DEAD

They were not nameless on the day
When duty summoned them away,
In that despairing, fateful hour
When tyranny let loose its power
And hurled its blows at free-born men,
Not one of these was "unknown" then.
We knew them when they volunteered.
We knew them on the day we cheered
And hailed them as they marched away
To keep the faith and save the day,
They were not unidentified
When the gray transport took the tide.
Along the battle lines of France,
In many a red, grim circumstance
When Flanders' sky was lit with flames,
Top- sergeants read aloud their names,
And they responded to the call—
But that was when we knew them all.
They were not sent as men unknown
Into the shell-swept battle zone,
And when they made their final stand
And heard their leader's last command,
'Twas not as nameless men they died—
That truth should not be swept aside.
Honor these glorious unknown!
Let Freedom keep them as her own.
Death left them nameless, but we live
In peace and all they dared to give.
What though their names from us are hid,
Shall we forget the deeds they did?

By William Brady, M. D.

FIVE ROOMS AND GYM

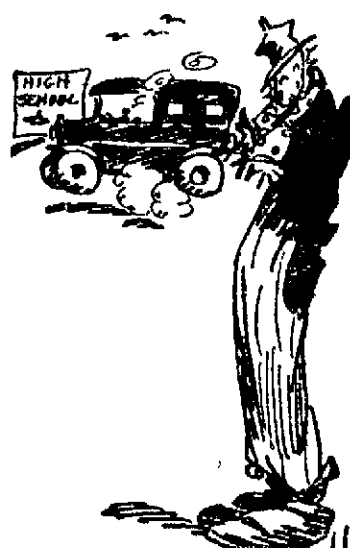

Instead of a bathtub, which is not an inviting utensil for one with a fondness for cleanliness, the well equipped modern home has a shower bath. The common bathtub is doomed to follow the roller towel into the incinerator. It was a showy, luxurious possession, duly played up for the special benefit of the lower classes, but an uncleanly thing nevertheless. The shower bath is not very showy, and offers little for one's maid Wilkins or one's maid Marie to "prepare" in the conventional fashion of aristocracy (in clean novels), but it is at least a clean thing to get into, when you have to do it. I do not intend to renounce my opposition to bathing as a rite, but merely to advocate the cultivation of cleanly methods by those who cannot get along without an occasional bath.

Now my notion of a clean proposition in the way of living quarters, would be anywhere from five to fifteen rooms and gym. The shower-bath might be set up in one corner of the gym. But a gym there must be in the home that purports to be the dwelling place of really clean folks.

This letter from a lawyer contains the right idea:
"My dear Dr. Brady: I have profited much by reading your articles and especially by putting into practice your advice about turning somersaults. I have kept those up, six every morning, for the past two years and now, at the age of 62, I am feeling vigorous and well."

"I want your advice about more exercise. I have a new home and a room especially equipped for a gymnasium. Do you think it advisable?"
By all means have a little gym in your home and spend more time there than you do in the bathroom.

Cocoanut Oil Makes

A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.
Yucca soap and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.
You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Adv.

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT

This is not lucky day.
Those undertaking important new enterprises will do well to postpone their undertakings until a more favorable rule of the stars prevails.
A stormy and unseasonable spring is predicted.
Those seeking new positions are governed by favorable stars.
Persons whose birthday this is should avoid making marked changes during the coming year, in both business and domestic affairs.
Children born on this day will have active lives, marked by much change.

YOUR NAME

By PHILIP FRANCIS NORRIS
VARIATIONS — Norris, a Nurse.
RACIAL ORIGIN — English
SOURCE — Geographical and occupational.
There is no doubt that in many instances family names group originated from the profession of nurse, or, as it was in the days when family names were forming, in the days before the invading Norman race and its "had become" or "became" English, "Nurse."
The nurse was not necessarily a woman, tho most often so, while women's names and surnames did sometimes give rise to family names, they did not, of course, so generally as men's. At these points make it likely that in a minority of cases, even the modern family name is "did the name come from this?"
All the evidence points to "reys" ("the Norse") or "le ern," as the origin of most of family names. Any man coming any part of England from a northern place would be likely called "le Norreys" or "le erns," tho the term also had the racial meaning as indicated by Norwegian or Norseman. The rather lively communication between the two lands even in days, when the difficulties of transportation are taken into consideration.
There are many English names which are traceable other three points of the too.
Tomorrow—Boyle.

HERE IS A SLOW ONE IN LOVE MAKING

(By SUSIE SMART)

Dear Miss Smart:

I have been going with a young woman for about five years. Several months ago I was out of town for a short time and while I was gone I heard that she went out with other men. It made me angry and I refused to have anything to do with her. Now I would like to make it up with her. What can I do?

HEART-BROKEN.

Apologize to her for your part in the quarrel. You say that you have been going with this young woman for five years but you speak of no engagement. Surely in five years you have had sufficient time to know whether or not you love this woman and would care to marry her. It is not fair to her for you to expect to monopolize all of her time and give up all of her friends for you if you do not mean to be serious.

Explain to her that you realize your mistake and that you were in the wrong and if you love her and feel that you want to marry her, tell her about it.

Dear Miss Smart:

(1) I am a girl of 17. Am I too young to be a movie actress? (2) Does a girl have to be pretty to be a movie star? (3) Do you know what they generally pay beginners? (4) Where is the movie farm located in California? (5) Does a girl have to have a good education to be a movie girl? (6) Are the people in the movies bad people? (7) Does a girl have to have a good figure to be a movie girl? (8) Are brown eyes to be in style this summer? (9) I am not quite 1 foot tall. Should I wear high heels? How high a heel should I wear? (10) How is my writing?

SUNSHINE.

(1) No, not if you are talented in that line. (2) Not necessarily. (3) Of course, beauty is a very fine asset to one who wishes to become an actress, but personality and the quality of acting are also just as essential. (3) No, I don't know exactly what a "beginner" is paid, but that it is not very much. (4) I don't know exactly where the "movie farm" is but there are moving picture companies at Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Long Beach, Hollywood, Culver City, Saratoga, Universal City and numerous other places throughout California. (5) Yes she should. She should at least be able to spell words, know where and when to use the proper word, when she has reached the age of 17 to write fairly well. Aren't you just a little bit ashamed of yourself? My advice is that you give up the movie idea and become better acquainted with Mr. Webster and his "little book". (6) The people in the movies cannot be classed as bad or "tough" people. Of course, just as among all classes of people, some have better qualities and traits than others. As each movie actor and each movie actress have their own particular characteristics and their own good and bad qualities just like every one else we cannot place them all in one class. (7) Yes. (8) Yes. (9) They give one height. (10) It could be much improved upon.

Here are two cake recipes. The first sounds rather appetizing and the second sounds rather economical. THE PARADISE MYSTERY

By J. S. FLETCHER

But his Grace knew nothing. He had never heard the name of John Braden in his life—so far as he remembered. He had just seen the body of the unfortunate man and had looked carefully at the features. He was not a man of whom he had any knowledge whatever—he could not recall at any time. He knew nothing of him—could not recall any reason at all why John Braden should wish to see him.

"Your Grace has, no doubt, had dealings with a good many people at one time or another," suggested the coroner. "Some of them perhaps saw for a brief space of time—a few minutes, possibly. You don't remember ever seeing this man in that way?"

"I'm credited with having an unusually good memory for faces," answered the duke. "And—if I may say so—rightly. But I don't remember this man at all. In fact, I'd rather this man at all. I'm positive I've never—knowingly—set my eyes on him in my life."

"Can it be your Grace suggest any reason at all why he should wish to call on you?" asked the coroner.

"None," replied the duke. "There might be many reasons—unknown to me, but at which I can make a guess. If he was an antiquary, there are lots of old things at Saxtonstone which he might wish to see. Or he might be a lover of pictures—our collection is a famous one, you know. Perhaps he is a bookman—we have some good editions. I could go on multiplying reasons—but to what purpose?"

"The fact is, your Grace doesn't know him and knows nothing about him," observed the coroner.

"Just no—nothing," agreed the duke, and stepped down again.

It was at this stage that the coroner sent the juryman away in charge of his officer to make a careful personal inspection of the gallery in the clerestory. And while they were gone there was some commotion caused in the court by the entrance of a police official who conducted to the coroner a middle-aged, well-dressed man whom Bryce at once set down as a London companion. The man was of some quality, and the new arrival and the coroner an interchange of remarks came at once, shared in present by some of the officials at the table.

And when the jury came back the stranger was at once ushered into the witness box and the coroner turned to the jury and the court.

"He is unexpectedly able to give some evidence of identity, gentlemen," he observed. "The gentleman who has just stepped into the witness box is Mr. Alexander Chilstone, manager of the London and Colonies Bank, in Threadneedle street. Mr. Chilstone saw particularly this morning, and he at once set off to Wyrechester to tell us what he knew of the dead man. We are very much obliged to Mr. Chilstone, and when he has been sworn he will perhaps kindly tell us what he knows."

In the midst of the murmur of assent, which ran round the court, Bryce indulged himself with a short look at Ransford, who was sitting opposite him, beyond the table. He saw that Ransford, however strenuous he might be fighting to keep his seat under control, was most certainly agitated by the coroner's announcement. His cheeks had paled, his eyes were a little dilated, his lips parted as he stared at the bank manager—altogether, it was more than mere curiosity that was indicated on his features. And Bryce, watching and secretly elated, turned to hear what Mr. Alexander Chilstone had to tell.

"That was not much—but it was of considerable importance. Only two days before, said Mr. Chilstone, that was on the day previous to his death—" death—Mr. John Braden had called at London and Colonies Bank, of which Mr. Chilstone was manager, and introducing himself as having just arrived in England from Australia, where, he said, he had been living for some years, he had asked to be allowed to open an account. He produced some references from agents of the London and Colonies Bank, to Melbourne, which were highly satisfactory; the account being opened, he paid into it a sum of $10,000 in a draft at sight drawn by one of those agents. He drew nothing against this, remarking casually that he had plenty of money in his pocket for the present; he did not even take the check-book which was offered him, saying that he would call for it later.

"He did not give us any address in London, nor in England," continued the witness. He told me that he had only arrived at Charing Cross that very morning, having traveled from Paris during the night. He said that he should settle down for a time at some residential hotel in London, and in the meantime he had one or two calls, or visits, to make in the country; when he returned from them, he said, he would call on me again. He gave me very little information about himself; it was not necessary for his references from our agents in Australia were quite satisfactory. But he did mention that he had been out there for some years, and had speculated in landed property—he also said that he was now going to settle in England for good. That," concluded Mr. Chilstone, "is all I can tell of my own knowledge. But," he added, drawing a newspaper from his pocket, "there is an advertisement which I noticed in this morning's Times as I came down. You will observe, he said, as he passed it to the coroner, "that it has certainly been inserted by our unfortunate customer."

The coroner glanced at a marked passage in the personal column of the Times, and read it aloud. "The advertisement is as follows," he announced:

"If this meets the eye of old friend Marco, he will learn that Sticker wishes to see him again. Write J. Braden, care of London and Colonies Bank, Threadneedle street, London."

Ransford was keeping a quiet eye on the coroner. Was he mistaken in believing that he saw him start; that he saw his cheek flush as he heard the advertisement read out? He believed he was not mistaken; but if he was right, Ransford the next instant regained full control of himself and made no sign. And Bryce turned again to coroner and witness.

But the witness had no more to say except to suggest that the bank's Melbourne agents should be called to for information, since it was unlikely that much more could be got in England. And with that the middle stage of the proceedings ended; and the last one came, watched by Bryce with increasing anxiety. For it was soon evident, from certain remarks made by the coroner, that the theory which Archdale had put forward at the previous day had gained favor with the authorities and that the visit of the juryman to the scene of the disaster had been intended by the coroner to predispose them in behalf of it. And now Archdale, himself, as representing the architects who held a retaining fee in connection with the cathedral, was called to give his opinion; and he gave it in almost the same words which Bryce had heard him use twenty-four hours previously. After him came the master mason, expressing the same decided conviction that the real truth was that the pavement of the gallery had at that particular place become so smooth and was inclined toward the open doorway at such sharp angle that the unfortunate man had lost his footing on it, and before he could recover it had been shot out of the arch and over the broken head of St. Wighbert's Stair. And then at a jurymen's wish, Varner was recalled, and stuck stoutly to his original story of having seen a hand which, he protested, was certainly not that of the dead man, it soon became plain that the jury shared the coroner's belief that Varner in his fright and excitement had been mistaken; and no one was surprised when the foreman, after a very brief consultation with his fellows, announced a verdict of death by misadventure.

"So the city's cleared of the stain of murder," said a man who sat next to Bryce. "That's a good job, anyway. Nasty thing, doctor, to think of a murder being committed in a cathedral. There'd be a question of sacrilege, of course, and all sorts of complications."

Bryce made no answer. He was watching Ransford, who was talking to the coroner. And he was not mistaken now—Ransford's face bore all the signs of infinite relief. From what? Bryce turned to leave the stuffy, rapidly emptying court. And as he passed the center table he saw old Simpson Harker, who, after sitting in attentive silence for three hours, had come up to it, picked up the "History of Barthorpe" which had been found in Braden's suitcase and was inquisitively peering at its titlepage.

Pemberton Bryce was not the only person in Wyrechester who was watching Ransford with keen attention during these events. Mary Bewery, a young woman of more than usual powers of observation and penetration, had been quick to see that her guardian's distress over the affair of the Paradise was something out of the common. She knew Ransford for an exceedingly tender-hearted man, with a considerable spice of sentiment in his composition; he was noted for his more than professional interest in the poorer sort of his patients and the lowly kind of his reputation in the town for his care of them. But Mary, that she should be so much upset by the death of a total stranger at any rate a couple of days, he so careless that his conduct could not fall to be noticed by herself and her brother. Her remarks on the tragedy were conventional enough—a most distressing affair—a sad fate for the poor fellow—most unexplainable and mysterious, and so on—but his concern obviously went beyond that. He was ill at ease when she questioned him about the facts; almost irritable when Dick Bewery, schoolboylike, asked him concerning professional details she was sure from the lines about his face, that he had passed a restless night when he came down to breakfast on the morning of the inquest. But when he returned from the inquest she noticed a change—it was evident to her ready wit, the Ransford had experienced a great relief. He spoke of relief, indeed, that night at dinner, observing that the verdict which the jury had returned had cleared the air of a foul suspicion; it would have been no pleasant matter, he said, if Wyrechester Cathedral had gained an unenviable notoriety as the scene of a murder.

"All the same," remarked Dick, who knew all the talk of the town, "Varner persists in sticking to what he said all along. Varner says, said this afternoon, after the inquest was over—that he's absolutely certain of what he saw, and that he not only saw a hand in a white cuff and black coat sleeve, but that he saw the sun gleam for a second on the links in the cuff, as if they were gold or diamonds. Pretty stiff evidence, sir, isn't it?"

"In the state of mind in which Varner was at that moment," replied Ransford, "he wouldn't be very well able to decide definitely on what he really did see. His vision would retain confused images. Probably he saw the dead man's hand—he was wearing a black coat and white linen. The verdict was a most sensible one."

No more was said after that, and that evening Ransford was almost himself again. But not quite himself. Mary caught him looking very grave, in evident abstraction, more than once; more than once she heard him sigh heavily. But he said no more of the matter until two days later, when at breakfast, he announced his intention of attending John Braden's funeral, which was to take place that morning.

"I've ordered the brougham for 11," he said. "And I've arranged with Doctor Nicholson to attend so urgent call that comes in between that and noon—so, if there is any such call, you can telephone to him. A few of us are going to attend this poor man's funeral—it would be too bad to allow a stranger to go to his grave unattended, especially after such a fate. There'll be somebody representing the dean and chapter, and three or four principal townsmen, so he'll not be quite neglected. And"—here he hesitated and looked a little nervously at Mary, to whom he was telling all this, Dick having departed for school—"there's a little matter I wish you'd attend to—you do it better than I should. The man seems to have been friendless; here, at any rate—no relations have come forward, in spite of the publicity—so don't you think it would be rather considerate, should we not put a wreath, or a cross, or something of the sort on his grave—just to show—you know?"

"Very kind of you to think of it," said Mary. "What do you wish me to do?"

"If you'd go to Gardales', the florists, and order—something fitting, you know," replied Ransford, "and afterward—later in the day—take it to St. Wighbert's Churchyard—he's to be buried there—take it—if you don't mind—yourself, you know."

"Certainly," answered Mary. "I'll see that it's done."

She would do anything that seemed good to Ransford—but all the same she wondered at this somewhat unusual show of interest in a total stranger. She put it down at last to Ransford's undoubted sentimentality—the man's sad fate had impressed him. And that afternoon

HER OWN CAREER

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

GWENDA RETURNS

"I like your idea of independent career for young women here in America," announced Manuel Lopez as he held Fern's eyes with his own magnetic ones. "Our girls and women are kept like hermits. They wear their own shadows, I believe. It is so splendid to meet and mix with girls who know how to live life as it should be lived, and who are truly self-reliant and fearless. You simply select the sort of work that most appeals to you, and go ahead with it. If it necessitates your leaving your home or village, why do you go and come to the cities. If I had my way, there would be a complete revolution in the lives of our women in South America, I can assure you. Miss Fern, for we are all still living in the middle ages, to my way of thinking."

"Funny, but I've gotten so accustomed to my own that I never stop to think that I am really a most fortunate girl," answered Fern, "and yet when I think back to the time when I dared not call my breath my own, before I broke away from home and came here to study, I do realize that I have a lot to be thankful for."

"My two sisters are watched every minute of their day," continued Manuel Lopez. "They are adorably pretty, so, of course, my parents consider that they are more in need of watching than other plainer girls, alas for them! And the poor youngsters are so alive and full of fun. It's frightful to see the daily suppressions going on, when I am at home. They were doomed at birth, poor little girls. If only I could get them up here and let them go their own way. But no. Husbands will be found for them in another year despite the fact that they are scarcely out of their swaddling clothes. And husbands, of course, will be the end."

"After all, it is the fault of the South American men, I should say," said Fern with a disapproving shake of her head. "Surely the women do not make the laws that pin them down so terribly?"

"I'm afraid I don't know what you're talking about, Mrs. Folliott," answered Bryce, whose ears had already lengthened. "Has Doctor Ransford been laying flowers on a grave?—I didn't know of it. My engagement with Doctor Ransford terminated two days ago—so I've seen nothing of him."

Here he arose with Fern, to greet Gwenda, who came in loaded with parcels, and very rosy in the face from her brisk walk.

John Neale flew to relieve her of them, and then he introduced Manuel Lopez to her, ceremoniously.

AMERICAN LEAGUERS TO GATHER FRIDAY IN CLEVELAND

American league baseball magnates will assemble tomorrow in Cleveland for the final session of a winter filled with gatherings of the diamond moguls. President Johnson announced yesterday and that he had sent out a call to the clubowners of his organization to meet and wind up the business connected with the game's reorganization, which has been going on since November.

The main thing of importance is the approval and adoption of rules and working measures laid out by the advisory council at its meeting in Chicago last Saturday.

At that time Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, met with President Johnson of the American, President Lloyd of the National, and President Sexton of the Minors' association. A number of rules for an agreement between the majors and between the minors and minors, were established, but will not be effective until approved formally by the leagues.

WILL ADOPT SCHEDULE

The formal matter of adopting the schedule for next year will also take place, though it is purely a formality as the schedule committee has absolute power in framing the dates. This was done in January when the majors and minors met in Chicago.

There are two or three trades of considerable importance now on the fire which may be completed at the session tomorrow. Most important is one, rumors of which came out of the east, saying that Clark Griffith would give Sam Rice and Joe Judge to New York for Phil Bredie, Wallie Phipps and Jack Quinn. Many of the experts doubt that Griffith has agreed to such a deal, as they figure he would be giving New York much the better of it.

RICE A CORNING PLAYER

Sam Rice has developed into the best base runner in the American league and one of the best hitters and outfielders. Joe Judge is considered second only to Sisler as a first baseman. Such a deal would make the Yankees a powerful team in spite of the fact they would be losing a strong and reliable pitcher in Quinn.

No one is more anxious to make a deal than is Comiskey, boss of the White Sox, but he figured he had no chance several weeks ago. He has no trading material and the other clubs don't want cash. However, the Sox will be in the field for any deal that will add strength to the team. President Comiskey is in Florida, but will have a representative at the meeting.

MRS. FIELD TO HAVE WHALE OF A SHOW

CHICAGO — If Earl Caddock, former heavyweight mat champion, is the victor over Jim London in their final match in New York next week he will meet John Pesek for the light heavyweight title in the main bout of the wrestling show to be conducted by Mrs. Marshall Field, III, for the benefit of institutions for crippled children at the Coliseum on Washington's birthday.

The former champion passed through Chicago yesterday on his way east. When the worthy cause was explained he readily agreed to appear if he wins from London, who already had been signed to meet Pesek. Joe Coffey, who is arranging the matches, is anxious to pit the best man available against Pesek, and for this reason has the promise of both London and Caddock to meet the champion of the light heavyweight title.

ASSURED OF MIDDLE-WEIGHT BOUT

Matchmaker Coffey stated that he has positive assurance from the principals in the two middleweight eliminations contests to be held before February 22, that the victors will clash for the title. Don Renahan and Ralph Parent will meet at the Ashland Auditorium tomorrow night, while Johnny Meyers and Paul Pheim will take holds at the Coliseum on February 18.

If hard work and determination will bring about the desired result, Mrs. Field should accomplish her purpose. Despite social activities

SOUTH READY TO JOURNEY UP-STATE

(BY GEORGE DEKON)

(Lima's News Staff Correspondent) South III's basketball team is working hard for their game with Findlay Friday night to be played on the foreign floor. This game will be a game of revenge, as South was defeated by Findlay in an overtime game this year, 13-15.

The team is in good shape and should put up an excellent game. Capt. Brookhart injured his knee in the game last Friday and may not be able to play. It is to be hoped he can, as he is one of the pillars of the South team.

If Brookhart is unable to play, Hamon will probably be substituted. Hamon has proven himself a capable forward and can pass the ball as well as connect with the hoop from the center of the floor.

WILLIAMS SHOWS UP Williams, South star freshman guard, is rapidly improving and should become one of the best guards in the state. He is an excellent shot as well as a close scrappy guard. He played an excellent game against St. Marys last Friday and kept his man from making a field goal while he connected with the basket three times.

Ireland and Daly have improved in the last week and are no longer stumbling the ball as was noticeable at the first of the season.

The South squad have had extra practice this week on how to play on the large floor which they will encounter at Findlay. Coach Young has developed excellent teamwork and the South team should win the game.

STUDENTS STAY HERE

No students will go to Findlay with the team due to the fact that the game is to be presented that night at Central III auditorium. The results of the game will be sent immediately to the auditorium where it will be announced to the audience.

RICKARD HAS OTHERS OUT OF BOUT

NEW YORK — Tex Rickard announced today he had arranged for the immediate transfer to Lima of the interests of Charles B. Cochran and William A. Brady in the proposed Dempsey-Carpenter championship match.

The transfer he said, would be made thru an attorney representing the other members of the original promotion project, Jack Kearns. Dempsey's manager will take part in the transactions he added.

INDICTED SOX TO BE TRIED MARCH 14

(BY HENRY FARRELL)

CHICAGO — The eight Chicago White Sox ball players who were indicted with Abe Attell and several others for alleged throwing of the 1919 world series at Cincinnati will go to trial on March 14, it was announced yesterday. Their trial will be held before Criminal Court Judge William Dever. Judge Dever announced that he would see that the case went to trial on schedule.

"I will have the decks all cleared and will not consider any requests for postponements," he said.

Only two of the indicted players appeared in court yesterday. They were "Hap" Felsch, outfielder, and "Buck" Weaver, third baseman.

Both these players plan to make a fight. Weaver is reported as willing to wager $500 he will be with the White Sox this coming season. All the other players excepting Hal Chase were represented by counsel.

PLANS EXTRADITION OF TWO Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman announced that he expected to start extradition proceedings against Chase and R. Brown, said to be a Boston gambler. Neither of these two was represented.

That difficulty is expected in getting a jury to try the players was indicated by Dever's action in instructing the sheriff to call a special venire of 100 men for trial.

LEADS LOSE TO GRACE, 27-25

Due probably to over-confidence, the Lima Leads lost a 5-minute overtime game last night to the Grace M. E. Quintet at the Y. M. C. A. The score was 27 to 25.

THE LINE-UP AND SUMMARY FOLLOWS:

LIMA LEADS: W. C. Dugal, 1; R. Roeder, 2; Stepleton, 3; H. Jehosko, 4; Cousins, 5; Greenland, 6; Whelpley, 7; C. Cousins and Greenland, 8.

GRACE M. E.: W. C. Dugal, 1; R. Roeder, 2; Stepleton, 3; H. Jehosko, 4; Cousins, 5; Greenland, 6; Whelpley, 7; C. Cousins and Greenland, 8.

Copp and Roses, 1; Armstrong, 2; Burgeon and Ridenour, 3; Gilmore, 4; Field Goals—Dugal, 3; Stepleton, 4; Whelpley, 6; Roeder, 5; Jehosko, 5; Cousins, 1; Greenland, 1.

Foul Goals—Stepleton, 1; Gilmore, 1.

TWO BIG GAMES TO BE PLAYED IN ST. ROSE AUDITORIUM

TEX RICKARD SAYS HE IS IN TANGLE

(BY HENRY FARRELL)

(United Press Staff Correspondent, NEW YORK) — "Will they freeze 'em out, well, you just wait and see who gets the ice."

Tex Rickard, waiting today for a train to Philadelphia, was talking about the tangle the Dempsey-Carpenter fight seems to be caught in.

"There's one thing sure about the whole affair," he said. "I'm going to have a hand in it or there will be a fight. Dempsey is with me and if any funny business is tried the others will find themselves with one boxer on their hands."

"If Cochran still wants to sit in on the game, he's welcome to the place as far as I'm concerned, as long as he does not try to tip over my chair."

Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, confirmed Rickard's statement that "he is with me."

KEARNS BACKS TEX "We're going to stick to Rickard, no matter what happens, we no fear."

Rickard laughed when asked if he was going to Quakertown to look for a site for the fight.

"No, I'm trying to keep that out of mind until we get some things straightened out. The peace and quietness of Philadelphia ought to be good for my nerves."

"By the way, give that rumor about transferring the fight to London a good kick. There is no chance for London to get that battle as long as I have anything to do with it. Where? —That's a different thing. This side is a big place, you know."

Two teams from Kenton will be in Lima tonight against two local teams at St. Rose auditorium.

It will be a double bill, with the Kenton boys' team of Ohio, battling the Garford city first, followed by a game between the Kenton girls and the Lima Crescents.

The first game will be called at 7:30.

Kenton is noted for its girls, all the boys say, and their speed they have been showing in basketball games so far this season surely indicates they're a fast bunch.

After a two week's rest following their game here tonight, the Blue Streaks will take a two weeks' rest in preparation for their trip east during which they will play some of the best feminine quints in the United States.

The girls have developed a wonderful team. They can make goals from most any angle of the floor, and believe in fighting. No pussy foot stuff goes with them. They enter the game from the start with a spirit to win, no matter what the consequences are.

GRACE M. E. DEFEAT'S LIMA LEADS IN OVER-TIME GAME ON Y. M. C. A. FLOOR WEDNESDAY NIGHT—RICKARD ALONE IN PROMOTING BOUT

AMERICAN LEAGUERS TO GATHER FRIDAY IN CLEVELAND

American league baseball magnates will assemble tomorrow in Cleveland for the final session of a winter filled with gatherings of the diamond moguls. President Johnson announced yesterday that he had sent out a call to the clubowners of his organization to meet and wind up the business connected with the game's reorganization, which has been going on since November.

The main thing of importance is the approval and adoption of rules and working measures laid out by the advisory council at its meeting in Chicago last Saturday.

At that time Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, met with President Johnson of the American, President Heydler of the National, and President Sexton of the Minors' association. A number of rules for an agreement between the majors and between the majors and minors, were established, but will not be effective until approved formally by the leagues.

WILL ADOPT SCHEDULE
The formal matter of adopting the schedule for next year will also take place, the it is purely a formality as the schedule committee has already decided on the schedule for the absolute power in framing the rules. This was done in January when the majors and minors gathered in Chicago.

There are two or three trades of considerable importance now on the fire which may be completed at the session tomorrow. Most important is one, rumors of which came out of the east, saying that Clark Griffith would give Sam Rice and Joe Judge to New York for Paul Hodge, Wallie Pipp, and Jack Quinn. Many of the experts doubt that Griffith has agreed to such a deal, as they figure he would be giving New York much the better of it.

NICE A CORNER PLAYER
Sam Rice has developed into the best base runner in the American league and one of the best hitters and outfielders. Joe Judge is considered second only to Stiller as a first baseman. Such a deal would make the Yankees a powerful team in spite of the fact they would be losing a strong and reliable pitcher in Quinn.

No one is more anxious to make a deal than Comiskey, boss of the White Sox, but he figured he had no chance several weeks ago. He has no trading material and the other clubs don't want cash. However, the Sox will be in the field for any deal that will add strength to the team. President Comiskey is in Florida, but will have a representative at the meeting.

MRS. FIELD TO HAVE WHALE OF A SHOW

CHICAGO — If Earl Caddock, former heavyweight mat champion, is the victor over Jim London in their final match in New York next week, he will meet John Pesek for the light heavyweight title in the main event of the wrestling show to be conducted by Mrs. Marshall Field, III, for the benefit of institutions for crippled children at the Coliseum on Washington's birthday.

The former champion passed the Chicago yesterday on his way east. When the worthy cause was explained he readily agreed to appear if he wins from London, who already had been signed to meet Pesek. Joe Coffey, who is arranging the matches, is anxious to pit the best man available against Pesek, and for this reason has the promise of both London and Caddock to meet the claimant of the light heavyweight title.

ASSURED OF MIDDLE-WEIGHT BOUT
Matchmaker Coffey stated that he has positive assurance from the principals in the two middleweight eliminations contests to be held before February 22, that the victors will clash for the title. Ben Reuben and Ralph Parant will meet at the Ashland Auditorium tomorrow night, while Johnny Meyers and Paul Pritch will take holds at the Coliseum on February 18.

If hard work and determination will bring about the desired result, Mrs. Field should accomplish her purpose. Despite social activities

LIMA A COAL DUMP

Thousands of tons of Coal, much of it of an inferior quality has been shipped into Lima this winter in search of a market. Such coal is known in the trade as "Distressed Coal" and some coal haulers handle such coal because it can be sold cheap to those who consider

SHREWD ECONOMY
cannot be used anywhere more advantageously than to protect your teeth from loss by decay. Your real teeth are worthy of constant attention while you possess them. The rapidity with which decay snatches them away, is often alarming as well as surprising.

It is like inviting failure to enter your life. You can't meet difficulties in a way to defeat them, when you permit this loss.

The enjoyment that follows my operations is the kind that brings people who want their teeth to have the best attention at once.

You should know about the economy of my prices.

BRINGING UP FATHER—

SHORT SHAVINGS

"You should have seen him play," said the man who had just finished his shave, "but he was so nervous he couldn't play a note."

"Well, you can't blame him for that," said the woman who had just finished her shave, "but he was so nervous he couldn't play a note."

The door of the barber shop was just about closing when a puffing of steam, coming from the boiler, forced its way into the room, and a man, who had just finished his shave, was seen to be in a state of great excitement.

"The first had caused a tremendous reaction," the man was told in the face and arms of the barber, "but he was so nervous he couldn't play a note."

"Did you ever taste moonshine whiskey?"

"Certainly not," replied the barber. "Anchovy who can swallow fast enough to keep from drinking it?"

"He's getting his poison now, but drinking it out of the right bottle."

RHEUMATISM Leaves You Forever

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Stays to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every drug in this country is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if two bottles of Allenbur's are taken, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop all agony, redness, swollen joints and all away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatism, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenbur has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiful, and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenbur, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires and suffers to know that does not want a cure at any price, unless Allenbur is given, and he has instructed the Allenbur Store to guarantee it in every instance. All.

THE TRIALS OF A HOUSEWIFE

How They Have Been Endured and How Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Experience of a Providence Woman

Providence, R. I.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a female trouble and backache. It began just after my baby was born, and I did the best I could about getting my work done, but I had awful bearing-down pains so I could not stand on my feet. I read in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the good it was doing other women, and I have got dandy results from it and will always recommend it. You can use these facts as a testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. HERBERT L. CASSEN, 18 Meni Court, Providence, R. I.

Ohio woman for three years could hardly keep about and do her housework she was so ill. Made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Fayette, O.—"For about three years I was very nervous and had backache, headache, dragging-down pains, could not sleep at night, and had no appetite. At times I could hardly do my housework. I got medicine from the doctor but it did not help me. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and took it with good results, and am now able to do my housework. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. CHESTER A. BALL, R. 15, Fayette, Ohio.

An Illinois woman relates her experience: Bloomington, Ill.—"I was never very strong and female trouble kept me so weak I had no interest in my housework. I had such a backache I could not cook a meal or sweep a room without raging with pain. Rubbing my back with alcohol sometimes eased the pain for a few hours, but did not stop it. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and six bottles of it have made me as strong and healthy as any woman; and I give my thanks to it for my health."—Mrs. J. A. McQuerry, 610 W. Walnut St., Bloomington, Ill.

The conditions described by Mrs. Cassen, Mrs. Ball, and Mrs. McQuerry will appeal to many women who struggle on with their daily tasks in just such conditions—in fact, it is said that the tragedy in the lives of some women is almost beyond belief. Day in and day out they slave in their homes for their families—and beside the daily routine of housework, often make clothes for themselves and for their children, or work in their gardens, all the while suffering from these awful bearing-down pains, backache, headaches, nervousness, the time when nature pays out and an operation seems inevitable. If such women would only profit by the experience of these three women, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the natural restorative for such conditions, it may save them years of suffering and unhappiness.

There is hardly a neighborhood in any town or hamlet in the United States wherein some woman does not reside who has been restored to health by this famous medicine. Therefore ask your neighbor, and you will find in a great many cases that at some time or other she, too, has been benefited by taking it, and will recommend it to you. For more than forty years this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring suffering women to health and strength.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women," will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while training for the Olympics several years ago. Doctors told me my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I found out something that quietly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned. Though I am doing hard work as a writer, there was no operation, no pain, no trouble. I have nothing to add now you may find a complete cure without operation. If you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 1545 Carnegie Avenue, Manhattan, N. Y., I will better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured. You may have a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.—Adv.
